March 2009
Volume 24

Dear Gainesville Resident,

Tax season is upon us and the Board of County Supervisors (BOCS) must make some difficult choices. In these uncertain times, the Chairman of the BOCS has made tax relief a priority to help both homeowners and business. In order to understand the debate on this issue, it is important to understand two key points; how the County generates revenue, and how the differential between commercial and residential property values complicates the budget debate.

The County generates some revenues through sales taxes, fees for service, and other sources, but the vast majority of revenues come from personal property taxes on real estate. Real Estate tax bills are sent to property owners on a semiannual basis. Your property tax bill is a function of two variables: the assessed value of your property and the tax rate. Given this, if the assessed value of your property declines by a greater percentage than the tax rate increases, you will pay less in taxes this year than you did last year. It is likely that the BOCS will adopt a tax rate which is much higher than last year, but this increase in the tax rate is anticipated to be much lower than the decline in average property values resulting in a lower tax bill than last year for homeowners.

One of the challenging issues this year is the fact that while residential property values have declined over thirty percent on average, commercial properties have appreciated over the year. Virginia State law prohibits localities from charging separate tax rates for residential and commercial properties. One tax rate serves both homeowners and commercial properties. A large increase in the tax rate coupled with the appreciation in commercial property values will result in an unacceptable increase in property taxes for businesses. An increased tax burden could potentially force already strained businesses into bankruptcy. As a result, the Chairman has suggested that the County advertise a tax rate of $1.198, which is the rate the County Executive based the proposed budget. The advertised rate is not the adopted rate, but an upper limit which the BOCS cannot exceed. At the March 3, 2009 BOCS meeting I supported the Chairman by voting for $1.198 to be the advertised rate. Unfortunately, this rate failed four in favor, four opposed. Three other rates were suggested, all failed. It is expected that the BOCS will revisit the issue at the March 17, 2009 meeting.

If the BOCS were to adopt the $1.198 tax rate, it is anticipated to reduce the average homeowner's tax bill by $548.00 (a 16% reduction) while increasing the average business tax bill only 5%, the County would reduce its spending by $56 million, when compared to the last fiscal year, without reductions in uniformed police or fire and rescue personnel. This is a responsible proposal to homeowners and businesses, and leaves the core functions of the County government intact. The proposed reductions in this year's budget will affect services, but I feel it is important that government be responsible in good times as well as bad. When a family sees a reduction in their income they must prioritize and determine what is essential and what is not. Government must also make these decisions when revenues are down and reduce spending instead of looking to the taxpayers to make up the difference.

In order to provide more detailed information on the budget; I have included the following links.

- Current Financial Forecasts
- Prince William County Budget and Analysis Webpage (includes links for the proposed budget and Capital Improvement Projects)
- Fiscal Year 2010 \(FY10\) Budget Process Calendar (Two events I would like to highlight from the calendar are below)
 - Monday, April 6 at 7:30 pm - Budget Public Hearing #1 (Dr. A.J. Ferlazzo Building Auditorium, 15941 Donald Curtis Drive, Woodbridge)
 - Thursday, April 9 at 7:30pm - Budget Public Hearing #2 (Battlefield High School, 15000 Graduation Drive, Haymarket)

My next Gainesville District Quarterly Town Hall Meeting will be held on March 19, 2009 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at Bull Run Middle School. County Executive, Craig Gerhart, Assistant County Executive Melissa Peacor, Budget Director, David Tyeryar and Finance Director, Chris Martino are scheduled to attend to present an overview of the proposed budget.

The budget process is a dynamic one which affects everyone in the County. I would encourage everyone in the County to voice your opinions regarding the budget. Without public input, it is difficult for elected officials to know the needs of the community. Questions regarding the budget can be sent to my office at Gainesville@pwcgov.org or to the budget office at budget@pwcgov.org. Each year the budget office receives hundreds of questions so I would recommend that you send your questions as early as possible. As always, please send me questions on any other topic you may have.

Sincerely,

John T. Stirrup

Comprehensive Plan Amendments, March 17, 2009

The 2008 Comprehensive Plan is a document which the County uses to evaluate rezoning and special use permit applications, public facility locations and capital improvements for consistency with its development policies. If an application has been determined to be inconsistent with the Comprehensive Plan, a Comprehensive Plan Amendment may be considered. In such an event, the applicant must have the amendment request initiated by either the Board of County Supervisors or the Planning Commission. Applications for Comprehensive Plan Amendments are reviewed annually. To be considered for review, all applications must be received by the Planning Office no later than the close of business the first Friday of January. Once initiated, an amendment will be heard by the Planning Commission, and then forwarded with the Commission’s recommendation to the Board of County Supervisors for final action.

TRANSPORTATION

Route 15 South Widening (I-66 ramp to 1000 feet north of Utterback Lane)

The majority of work for the past two months was concentrated on Little Bull Run Bridge (shown in the picture below). Currently the PPTA contractor is working on the bridge approach slabs and final grading stages for the south bound lanes between Stepping Stone Drive and Little Bull Run Creek. The scheduled completion date for this phase is December 14, 2009, but the realignment to the final configuration is anticipated to occur sometime mid to late April, weather permitting. This will provide a 4-lane divided highway from I-66 all the way to Dominion Valley Drive which will significantly relieve the daily traffic jam. Phase I which is the section between Dominion Valley Drive and Route 234 will be completed by mid December.

Intersection of Heathcote Boulevard and Route 15

Old Carolina

Grading and bridge work has begun. Construction crews have moved approximately 300,000 yards of earthworks, laid approximately 400 feet of storm sewer pipes and eight structures, the storm water management pond is built, foundations for south bound lane bridge abutments were excavated and poured and reinforcement rebar are being erected. Washington Gas and Verizon are currently relocating their facilities to allow the north bound bridge work to commence. The scheduled completion date for this phase is September 1, 2009, but the realignment to the final configuration is anticipated to occur mid to late July 2009, weather permitting.
